Couzens Says Greed Has Caused Unemployment

CAPITALISTIC SYSTEM MUST BE PUT IN ORDER

OR IT WILL SUFFER THE CONSEQUENCES OF REGULATION BY THE PEOPLE

UNFORTUNATELY WE HAVE ADOPTED MONEY YARD STICK AS SUCCESS MEASURE

Herewith is an interview granted the United Press by Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, who made a fortune in industry and then went into public service. He now warns capital that it must clean house and give up its "money greed" or it will meet the fate the distillers did when prohibition became the public's answer to their failure to clean house.

By LYLE C. WILSON (United Press Staff Correspondent) (Copyright, 1931, by United Press)

Washington, April 22.—Sen. James Couzens, republican, Michigan, a multimillionaire, attributes unemployment and attendant ills in the United States to unrestrained greed.

This wealthiest member of congress is convinced the capitalistic system must be put in order by those in charge of it or suffer the consequences of regulation by the people. Although he prefers the scheme of private initiative upon which American business and industry has based its phenomenal development, Couzens says he is beginning to doubt the American people can continue to rely on it.

He discussed such matters in an interview with the United Press.

His ideas illustrate the extent to which he rejects the accepted rich man's philosophy, and similarly rejects claims of the republican party upon his vote party principles counter his own ideas. The senator splits his votes between the regular and progressive republican groups and belongs to neither. The best definition of his political status in the senate is "irregular."

The United Press sought from Couzens the answer to this question:

"Who is responsible for that economic strain?"

"I doubt if you can say who is responsible," he replied. "But you can say what is responsible. It is unrestrained greed. And all who are actuated by unrestrained greed share responsibility for these conditions."

"One of the best examples of how these things come about and what is likely to be their development is given in the history of prohibition."

"I used to be police commissioner in Detroit at the time agitation for prohibition was increasing on a national scale. I know I warned brewers and distillers and I know others warned them that unless they put their own house in order the people would do it for them. The manner and method in which the people did that job is history."

"Without any more claim to prophetic vision now than I could have had then, I can say the same thing is going to happen to capitalistic industry unless it puts its house in order."

"But, unfortunately we have adopted the money yard stick as the measure of success. The men achieving success by that yard stick are able men. They have one-track minds. They drive toward a single objective. That objective is to make their own organization a success by the money yard stick and they think of nothing else. "If I had not got out of the Ford Motor Company at an age which would enable me to absorb some new ideas, I am reasonably certain I would have felt the same way about money and success. And you must understand I make no complaint against making money. Industry must be self-supporting."

"It must make money. It does seem to me, though, that a great industrialist ought to get some satisfaction out of considering the human equation in his plant—more satisfaction from that than merely from making money."

"The only hope for social mindedness among industrial leaders," he continued in response to questions, "is education. Industry might be educated to its responsibility. If it assumed the responsibility of paying an annual income to its workers it would find means getting its money's worth. It could guarantee an annual income based on 48 weeks' employment. Having done that, industry would see to it that there was work to be done. If American industry can do anything it can get its money's worth. It has shown that."

"There is food for thought in the anti-capitalistic system devised by Soviet Russia. Under our laws we insist on continuing the highly competitive system—the Clayton and Sherman acts lay down the policy on that question. But now our production exceeds our ability to consume. The question therefore arises, how far shall we insist on this highly competitive system of ours?"

"It is significant that both the anti-capitalistic and capitalist systems now

EXPECTS RANSOM BID FROM SPOUSE'S ABDUCTORS TODAY

DR. ISAAC KELLEY OF ST. LOUIS TAKEN AS HE ANSWERED FICTITIOUS CALL

WEALTHY WIFE WILL PAY ANY FEE DEMANDED BY KIDNAPPERS

St. Louis, April 22.—(U.P.)—The wealthy wife of Dr. Isaac D. Kelley, kidnapped physician, today awaited word from the abductors that they were ready to approach her for a ransom fee.

Kelley drove his big black car away in a pouring rain Monday night to answer what turned out to be a fictitious emergency call.

Police today arrested Edward (Cocky) Leonard, police character, for investigation when it was learned that he owned a yellow automobile similar to one containing six excited men which crossed the Lewis and Clark bridge over the Mississippi River Monday night.

Leonard was last arrested in connection with the kidnapping of Michael Katz, millionaire druggist of Kansas City in March 1930.

A telephone call was received by Detective Chief John Kaiser yesterday afternoon saying "Don't worry about Dr. Kelley. He is in Chicago and is all right." Before Kaiser could reply, the receiver clicked. The call could not be traced. Kaiser believed it "from a crank."

Mrs. Kelley is the former Kathleen McBride, a daughter of William Cullen McBride, multimillionaire oil magnate who died in 1917. Her fortune is estimated at several millions.

The two young children of the Kelleys, Anne and Mary Ellen were taken from the private school they attended to the home of a friend, after being informed of their father's disappearance.

Mrs. Kelley was said to be willing to "pay any ransom" for her husband's safe return. E. R. Christman, one of the attorneys, said no private attempt to contact with the kidnappers was being made, and police would be notified if they attempted to negotiate.

H. E. Kelley, a brother of the physician, said his only explanation of the ransom. My brother had no enemies disappearance was "kidnapping for controversy, that would impel such that I know of, and never engaged in an act."

The missing man has been one of the city's leading physicians for a decade. He was a nose and ear specialist. He was known never to shirk an emergency call, no matter what the hour.

SPANISH AMERICAN WAR BONUS PASSED

St. Paul, Minn., April 22.—Payment of $1,500,000 in bonuses to Minnesota veterans of the Spanish American War was provided in one of the final measures passed today by the state legislature.

The measure provides for payment of $15 a month, the same basis on which World War veterans are compensated. It passed the senate today, 40 to 9, and now goes to the governor for signature.

Other bills which were approved during the final hours of the session, and now go to the governor for his action, included:

The five-day waiting period bill, requiring a delay between application for a marriage license and its issuance.

The teachers pension bill, establishing a new system of pensions for teachers serving outside the three large cities.

A measure to pay school taxes on rural credit department lands, appropriating $200,000.

are running at full speed and that both can be observed in operation at the same time. Which of the two is the better is a matter of opinion.

"But I will say that, inefficient as the democratic form of government is, and even with all the claims made that the dead hand of government must not throttle industry, it is better that we do that than that we should pass through economic conditions such as these."

"I have no patience with the man who finds fault with government regulation and offers no substitute. From my own experience I much prefer private initiative, but I am not convinced we can't rely on it any longer."

Red Wing Republican Proposes Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth For Vice President

TO BE CANDIDATE FOR NOMINATION OF REPUBLICANS

NAME OF ROOSEVELT STILL IS ONE TO CONJURE WITH

SHE WOULD RALLY FEMININE FORCES TO HER BANNER

Red Wing, Minn., April 22.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth was advanced today as a candidate for the republican vice presidential nomination in 1932 in an editorial published by the Red Wing Republican.

The editorial said that it is practically certain that President Hoover and Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York will be the presidential nominees.

"The name of Roosevelt still is one to conjure with," the Republican said in discussing the New York governor's candidacy. "Also, Roosevelt would be expected to carry New York state, giving his party a big lead in the east."

"It is generally assumed that Vice President Curtis will be called upon to succeed himself. But little has been said about that. Political expediency may alter the situation."

"It would seem that the republicans have mighty good vice presidential timber in Alice Roosevelt Longworth of Ohio, widow of the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth. Her nomination would accomplish several things."

"It would place the Roosevelt name on the republican ticket and to a great extent offset the Roosevelt name on the democratic ticket. And it would make Ohio, a pivotal state, safely republican."

"Nobody doubts the ability of Mrs. Longworth for the second place in the government, because she is a chip off the old block with life-long training in politics and official life. She would make a clipper of a presiding officer of the senate."

"And then, she would rally the feminine forces throughout the country to her banner."

STOCK PRICES ARE SHOWING DECLINE

MANY LEADERS ARE BREAKING TO NEW 1931 LOW LEVELS

By ELMER C. WALZER United Press Financial Editor.

New York, April 22.—(U.P.)—Stock prices continued to decline today, many leaders breaking to new 1931 low levels.

Several large blocks of the principal trading stocks changed hands at the opening. Radio opened 1 1/4 points lower at 18 on a sale of 10,000 shares, while the initial transaction in United Corporation was 11,000 shares at 22, a loss of 1-4 point.

In the higher grade shares, steel common sold at a further new low since 1927 at 126 1/2, a loss of a point. Western Union duplicated its low of 115 1/4 on a loss of 2 1/4 points and both Standard Oil of New Jersey and Westinghouse slipped to new lows on fractional recessions.

FAIL TO CONVICT 3 MEN CHARGED WITH KILLING BUCKLEY

Detroit, April 22.—(U.P.)—Every legal resource of the state of Michigan had failed today to convict three men charged with the boldest gang killing in the city's history—the murder of Jerry Buckley, radio commentator.

After seven months of grand jury investigation and eight weeks of trial, a jury last night returned a "not guilty" verdict, freeing all three defendants.

The accused men, Ted Pizzino, Joe Bonmarito and Angelo Levicchi, were overjoyed. But the joy of two of them was short-lived. Pizzino and Levicchi were immediately re-arrested—the former on another murder charge and the latter for allegedly jumping a $20,000 bond in Rochester, N. Y.

BELIEVED LOST IN CAT-BOAT

COAST GUARD PATROL SEARCHING LAKE MICHIGAN FOR WM. KEEG

Chicago, April 22.—(U.P.)—William Keeg, Chicago insurance engineer, was believed lost on Lake Michigan today in a 20-foot cat boat. Coast guard crews at all ports along the south end of the lake were ordered to search for him.

He purchased the ship Saturday afternoon at South Haven, Mich., according to A. C. Mergleberg, his employer here, and started the trip to Chicago late Saturday or Sunday. He intended to come ashore at a half way point and take a train into Chicago.

Keeg failed to appear at his office Monday as he had planned. When he had not arrived today, Mergleberg notified the coast guard. It was believed that he had perished.

"There's not a chance in the world," one guardsman said. "His boat apparently capsized or he became lost on the lake in a fog."

Keeg is a son of W. H. G. Keeg, president of the Lumberman's Mutual Insurance Company, Mansfield, O.

CAPT. HAWKS FLIES NON-STOP LONDON TO ROME

AMERICAN FLIER AVERAGED 174 MILES AN HOUR ON FLIGHT

HAD TO FIGHT WIND AND RAIN ALL ALONG THE ROUTE

Rome, April 22.—(U.P.)—Captain Frank Hawks, American flier, arrived at 11:48 A. M. after a record breaking non-stop flight from London to Rome.

Hawks said he had averaged 174 miles an hour on the flight, despite the fact that he encountered unfavorable weather.

"I had to fight wind and rain all along the route," the American flier said after having lunch. Hawks departed on his return trip to England at 1:41 P. M. today from Venticello airdrome.

Hawks required only five hours and 22 minutes for the flight from Heston airdrome, London, to Rome.

The former record for the London to Rome flight was 12 1/2 hours, held by Commander Charles E. Kingsford-Smith. Hawks reduced it by seven hours and eight minutes—more than half.

Col. Guilio Martucci, representing the air ministry, and Major Nullo Rengareschi, commander of the airport, extended an official welcome. Many air officers surrounded the American flier and warmly congratulated him.

The distance for the flight was about 900 miles.

Paris, April 22.—Capt. Frank M. Hawks, on a return flight to London after a record-breaking dash from London to Rome, was forced down in a bad about 90 miles south of Paris tonight by bad weather.

He telephoned the news of his mishap to the Paris offices of the Texas Company, sponsor of his flight. He reported the plane was undamaged and he was unhurt.

Arrangements were made to take him a supply of gasoline so he could resume his flight to London in the morning.

The forced landing spoiled Hawks' chances to set one of the most brilliant records in European flying. The American had left Heston airdrome, England, this morning, and made the fastest non-stop flight to Rome ever accomplished. His time of 5 hours and 22 minutes eclipsed the previous record of Charles E. Kingsford-Smith by 7 hours and 8 minutes. He averaged 174 miles an hour, although he had to fight wind and rain in his journey and flew 20,000 feet high to cross the Alps.

Hawks left Rome on the return journey early this afternoon. Trouble with an oil feed tube forced him to descend at Pisa, 175 miles north of Rome. He proceeded in 15 minutes, after temporary repair and taking on of fuel.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, April 22.—Rebels led by Col. Salvador Canales attacked Guaymas, five miles from Tela last night.

They were opposed by government troops in a battle that lasted nearly three hours. The dead included Canales himself and about 15 officers and men.

News of the engagement was contained in a dispatch to the presidential offices from Santos Pineda, under-secretary of war, who is in the war zone.

The government troops, Pineda said, were commanded by Col. Oscar Munda. Their losses comprised the deaths of Capt. Constantino Urbina and three men, and about ten wounded.

The rebels were routed completely, Pineda said.

Bogota, Colombia, April 22.—An unconfirmed telegram from the Arauca correspondent of El Tiempo today said the correspondent had received a communication from General Arevalo Cedeño, Venezuela revolutionist, announcing that a detachment of Cedeño's forces had defeated a group of federal troops at Mercurito, Venezuela, taking considerable booty.

Lima, Peru, April 22.—The government junta, in an official announcement today charged Col. Aurelio Garcia Godos, Peruvian army officer now in Chile, attempted to plot against the present administration.

"We condemn the error of Col. Garcia Godos in trying to lead the army from its path of duty," the statement said.

"The junta is prepared to put down immediately any attempt against the public order," it was said.

Cuzco, Peru, April 22.—The revolutionary association leader, Luis Heyssen, was the center of a disturbance here last night when several persons were wounded in a clash between members of the association and communists. Heyssen arrived here on an electoral tour and was hissed by the communist workers.

OCCASIONAL SNOW FLURRIES THROUGHOUT MINNESOTA YESTERDAY

St. Paul, Minn., April 22.—(U.P.)—The United States weather bureau predicted another spring frost for tonight.

A snowfall of short duration covered the ground in the southwestern corner of the state, it was reported.

Leitch was not held. Brown was knocked unconscious in the fight and died without regaining consciousness.

TAX LEVY FOR COMING BIENNIAL HIGHEST IN HISTORY

SEWAGE BILL DIES, COULD NOT PASS IT OVER GOVERNOR'S VETO

MAJOR ACHIEVEMENTS, CONSERVATION COMMISSION, HIGHWAY BONDS

By HILLIER KRIEGBAUM (United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Minn., April 22.—Minnesota's 47th legislature adjourned today to let the courts decide how the state shall be redistributed.

After considerable discussion before the senate and house met for their final session, it was agreed not to pass a joint resolution enacting the reapportionment bill vetoed by Governor Floyd B. Olson.

Led by Senator A. J. Rockne, Zumbrota, the legislators decided to test the validity of the governor's veto. Information from Washington supported their contention that the veto was ineffective.

Senator Claude H. Mackenzie, Gaylord, conservative senate leader, announced that as soon as possible a test case will be started.

One of Minnesota's congressmen will attempt to file for reelection, under the proposal, and Secretary of State Mike Holm will refuse to accept the petition. Mandamus proceedings will be started against the secretary of state and thus the entire issue will be brought before the courts.

The present legislature passed fewer laws than most of its recent predecessors. Many of the bills regarded as most vital were caught in the final hours of the session which did not adjourn until nearly 5 A. M. today. Today's session was a formality and no bill could be passed.

Governor Floyd B. Olson threw out two of the major bills passed by both houses when he vetoed the reapportionment bill Monday and the Tri-City sewerage disposal bill late Tuesday.

The sewerage bill died because legislators could not pass it over the governor's veto and could not rally enough votes around a new plan which might have met with his approval.

The Tax levy for the coming biennium will be the highest in the history of the state. In the closing hours of the session a bill was passed authorizing a levy of 4.3 mills for 1932 and 3.2 mills for 1933.

The highest previous levy had been 3.5 mills tax levy in 1919, 1923 and 1926.

Major achievements of the present session of the legislature include creation of a five-man conservation commission, which Governor Olson said would have justified the session if it had taken no other action; approval of a $15,000,000 highway construction bond issue and creation of a permanent parole board.

The five-man conservation commission was one of the planks in Governor Olson's platform when he was elected to office last November and he was anxious that the legislature approve such a measure. Under its proposals, the various forestry, game and fish, water and power and drainage and lands departments are consolidated and unified under one head—a commissioner who will be hired by the five men on the commission which will be appointed by the governor.

The highway construction will be financed by an issue of bonds. This measure had the opposition of many rural members of the legislature who argued that it would only increase taxes. Supporters of the bond issue argued that it would give employment to a large number of persons and that the state's highway system would be remarkably improved at a nominal cost.

The full time parole board will supplant a part time one. The governor already has appointed the members of the new board of three.

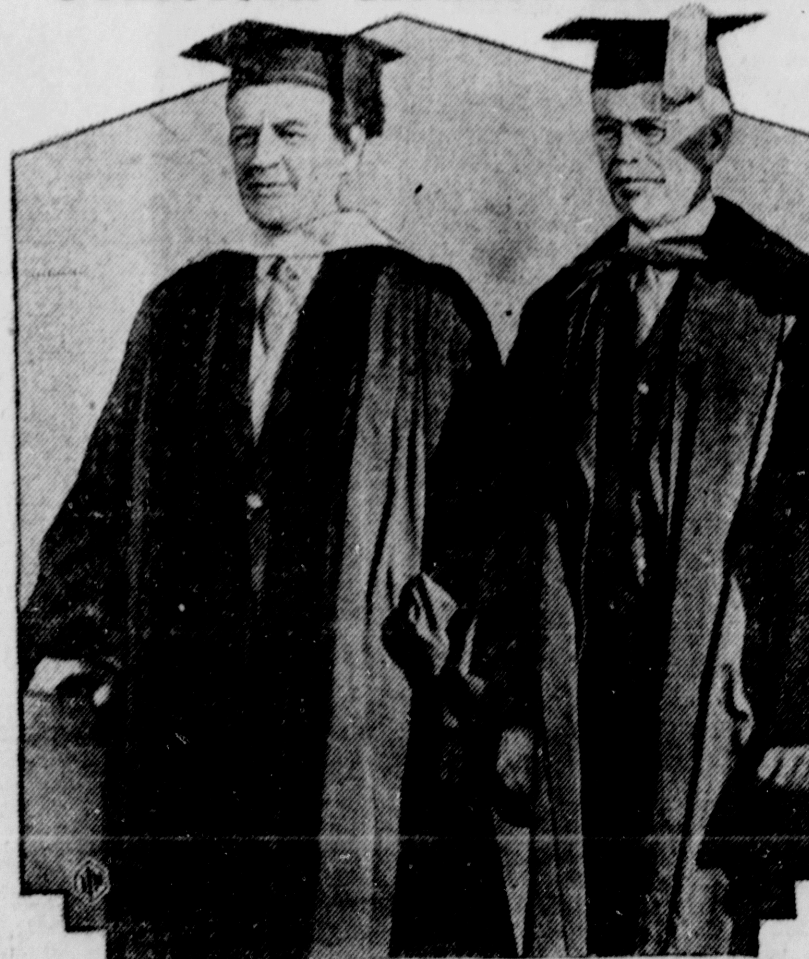

Governor Olson won his battle with the legislature for return of the interim appointments of former Governor Theodore Christianson. They were returned to Olson and he named all of them except N. J. Holmberg to be commissioner of agriculture. He was successful in obtaining the support of a majority of the senate and Holmberg's confirmation was withheld by the senate. This was a major victory for the governor because he had promised his supporters during the fall campaign that he would "clean house" in the capital and his attacks had centered on the commissioner of agriculture.

While the governor was interested in the removal of F. A. Duxbury, Minneapolis, from the state industrial commission, he made no effort to influence the senate. He was rewarded by seeing Duxbury join Holmberg as an ex-officio holder. The contest on Duxbury was carried by Senator Gerald T. Mullin, young Minneapolis member.

Repeal of the Minnesota newspaper "gag" law was tied up in the final days of the session. The repeal measure passed the house but failed to get on the special order list of the senate and therefore died. Considerable sentiment both in Minnesota and throughout the country was crystallized against the law. An appeal of the closing of a Minneapolis paper under

Detroit, April 22.—(U.P.)—Every legal resource of the state of Michigan had failed today to convict three men charged with the boldest gang killing in the city's history—the murder of Jerry Buckley, radio commentator.

After seven months of grand jury investigation and eight weeks of trial, a jury last night returned a "not guilty" verdict, freeing all three defendants.

The accused men, Ted Pizzino, Joe Bonmarito and Angelo Levicchi, were overjoyed. But the joy of two of them was short-lived. Pizzino and Levicchi were immediately re-arrested—the former on another murder charge and the latter for allegedly jumping a $20,000 bond in Rochester, N. Y.

BELIEVED LOST IN CAT-BOAT

COAST GUARD PATROL SEARCHING LAKE MICHIGAN FOR WM. KEEG

Chicago, April 22.—(U.P.)—William Keeg, Chicago insurance engineer, was believed lost on Lake Michigan today in a 20-foot cat boat. Coast guard crews at all ports along the south end of the lake were ordered to search for him.

He purchased the ship Saturday afternoon at South Haven, Mich., according to A. C. Mengleberg, his employer here, and started the trip to Chicago late Saturday or Sunday. He intended to come ashore at a half way point and take a train into Chicago.

Keeg failed to appear at his office Monday as he had planned. When he had not arrived today, Mengleberg notified the coast guard. It was believed that he had perished.

"There's not a chance in the world," one guardsman said. "His boat apparently capsized or he became lost on the lake in a fog."

Keeg is a son of W. H. G. Keeg, president of the Lumberman's Mutual Insurance Company, Mansfield, O.

CAPT. HAWKS FLIES NON-STOP LONDON TO ROME

AMERICAN FLIER AVERAGED 174 MILES AN HOUR ON FLIGHT

HAD TO FIGHT WIND AND RAIN ALL ALONG THE ROUTE

Rome, April 22.—(U.P.)—Captain Frank Hawks, American flier, arrived at 11:48 A. M. after a record breaking non-stop flight from London to Rome.

Hawks said he had averaged 174 miles an hour on the flight, despite the fact that he encountered unfavorable weather.

"I had to fight wind and rain all along the route," the American flier said after having lunch. Hawks departed on his return trip to England at 1:41 P. M. today from Venticello airome.

Hawks required only five hours and 22 minutes for the flight from Heston airome, London, to Rome.

The former record for the London to Rome flight was 12 1/2 hours, held by Commander Charles E. Kingsford-Smith. Hawks reduced it by seven hours and eight minutes—more than half.

Col. Guilio Martucci, representing the air ministry, and Major Nullo Rengareschi, commander of the airport, extended an official welcome. Many air officers surrounded the American flier and warmly congratulated him.

The distance for the flight was about 900 miles.

Paris, April 22.—Capt. Frank M. Hawks, on a return flight to London after a record-breaking dash from London to Rome, was forced down in a old about 90 miles south of Paris tonight by bad weather.

He telephoned the news of his mishap to the Paris offices of the Texas Company, sponsor of his flight. He reported the plane was undamaged and he was unhurt.

Arrangements were made to take him a supply of gasoline so he could resume his flight to London in the morning.

The forced landing spoiled Hawks' chances to set one of the most brilliant records in European flying. The American had left Heston airome, England, this morning, and made the fastest non-stop flight to Rome ever accomplished. His time of 5 hours and 22 minutes eclipsed the previous record of Charles E. Kingsford-Smith by 7 hours and 8 minutes. He averaged 174 miles an hour, although he had to fight wind and rain in his journey and flew 20,000 feet high to cross the Alps.

Hawks left Rome on the return journey early this afternoon. Trouble with an oil feed tube forced him to descend at Pisa, 175 miles north of Rome. He proceeded in 15 minutes, after temporary repair and taking on of fuel.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, April 22.—Rebels led by Col. Salvador Canales attacked Guakymas, five miles from Tela last night.

They were opposed by government troops in a battle that lasted nearly three hours. The dead included Canales himself and about 15 officers and men.

News of the engagement was contained in a dispatch to the presidential offices from Santos Pineda, under-secretary of war, who is in the war zone.

The government troops, Pineda said, were commanded by Col. Oscar Munda. Their losses comprised the deaths of Capt. Constantino Urbina and three men, and about ten wounded.

The rebels were routed completely, Pineda said.

TAX LEVY FOR COMING BIENNIIUM HIGHEST IN HISTORY

SEWAGE BILL DIES, COULD NOT PASS IT OVER GOVERNOR'S VETO

MAJOR ACHIEVEMENTS, CONSERVATION COMMISSION, HIGHWAY BONDS

By HILLIER KRIEGBAUM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Minn., April 22.—Minnesota's 47th legislature adjourned today to let the courts decide how the state shall be redistributed.

After restricted discussion before the senate and house met for their final session, it was agreed not to pass a joint resolution enacting the reapportionment bill vetoed by Governor Floyd B. Olson.

Led by Senator A. J. Rockne, Zumbrota, the legislators decided to test the validity of the governor's veto. Information from Washington supported their contention that the veto was ineffective.

Senator Claude H. Mackenzie, Gaylord, conservative senate leader, announced that as soon as possible a test case will be started.

One of Minnesota's congressmen will attempt to file for re-election, under the proposal, and Secretary of State Mike Holm will refuse to accept the petition. Mandamus proceedings will be started against the secretary of state and thus the entire issue will be brought before the courts.

"The present legislature passed fewer laws than most of its recent predecessors. Many of the bills regarded as most vital were caught in the final hours of the session which did not adjourn until nearly 5 A. M. today. Today's session was a formality and no bill could be passed."

Governor Floyd B. Olson threw out two of the major bills passed by both houses when he vetoed the reapportionment bill Monday and the Tri-City sewerage disposal bill late Tuesday.

The sewerage bill died because legislators could not pass it over the governor's veto and could not rally enough votes around a new plan which might have met with his approval.

The tax levy for the coming biennium will be the highest in the history of the state. In the closing hours of the session a bill was passed authorizing a levy of 4.3 mills for 1932 and 3.2 mills for 1933.

The highest previous levy had been 3.5 mills tax levy in 1919, 1923 and 1925.

Major achievements of the present session of the legislature include creation of a five-man conservation commission, which Governor Olson said would have justified the session if it had taken no other action; approval of a $15,000,000 highway construction bond issue and creation of a permanent parole board.

The five-man conservation commission was one of the planks in Governor Olson's platform when he was elected to office last November and he was anxious that the legislature approve such a measure. Under its proposals, the various forestry, game, and fish, water and power and drainage and lands departments are consolidated and unified under one head—a commissioner who will be hired by the five men on the commission which will be appointed by the governor.

The highway construction will be financed by an issue of bonds. This measure had the opposition of many rural members of the legislature who argued that it would only increase taxes. Supporters of the bond issue argued that it would give employment to a large number of persons and that the state's highway system would be remarkably improved at a nominal cost.

The full time parole board will supplant a part time one. The governor already has appointed the members of the new board of three.

Governor Olson won his battle with the legislature for return of the interim appointments of former Governor Theodore Christianson. They were returned to Olson and he named all of them except N. J. Holmberg to be commissioner of agriculture. He was successful in obtaining the support of a majority of the senate and Holmberg's confirmation was withheld by the senate. This was a major victory for the governor because he had promised his supporters during the fall campaign that he would "clean house" in the capital and his attacks had centered on the commissioner of agriculture.

While the governor was interested in the removal of F. A. Duxbury, Minneapolis, from the state industrial commission, he made no effort to influence the senate. He was rewarded by seeing Duxbury join Holmberg as an ex-officio holder. The contest on Duxbury was carried by Senator Gerald T. Mullin, young Minneapolis member.

Repeal of the Minnesota newspaper "gag" law was tied up in the final days of the session. The repeal measure passed the house but failed to get on the special order list of the senate and therefore died. Considerable sentiment both in Minnesota and throughout the country was crystallized against the law. An appeal of the closing of a Minneapolis paper under

After an illness of only three days, Dr. Elmer E. Shaffer of Motley passed away yesterday afternoon at the St. Joseph's hospital. His death was caused indirectly from exposure, as he was lost last winter and badly frozen, and since that time his health has failed steadily.

UNIFORM FLAVOR
IN COFFEE DEPENDS UPON THE ROASTING

Hills Bros. Insure Uniformity by Their Patented, Continuous Process

Coffee experts agree that blend alone, regardless of quality, will not produce a perfect cup of coffee. In the roasting of the blend lies the secret of perfect flavor.

The common method of roasting coffee in bulk falls short in developing flavor, because it is not possible to roast every berry evenly. Realizing this, Hills Bros., after years of experimenting, discovered and patented a continuous process of roasting coffee a little at a time.

Control is the watchword of this process. The quantity of coffee passing into the roaster does not vary. The speed of operation and temperature remain the same with the result that Hills Bros. Coffee is absolutely uniform. This process, fittingly called "Controlled Roasting," gives a flavor in the cup that no other coffee has.

Hills Bros. Coffee never "goes stale" because it is packed in vacuum cans. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh because air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is inside. By the vacuum process, air is taken out of the can and kept out. Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere by grocers. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

End of Vandals as Nation

The Vandals were a Teutonic race which played a leading part in the disruption of the Roman empire in the Fifth century. They overran Gaul and Spain, and crossing to Africa established a kingdom there under Genseric (A. D. 429); committed all the excesses of barbaric devastation which have made their name proverbial; and wantonly destroyed works of art, monuments, and priceless treasures of literature during the sack of Rome (455). The Emperor Justinian sent Belisarius against them, and after several defeats they were eventually routed (533), and as a nation ceased to exist.

Why Risk It?

Woodrow Wilson, playing golf one day with three friends, followed a particularly slow foursome with a habit of holding long and intimate discussions on every green. Coming to a short hole, the confab lasted for a full ten minutes, and the Wilson group reached the last stages of nervous exasperation.

"Outrageous," one of them exclaimed at last, stepping out on the tee. "I'm going to shoot."

"I wouldn't," advised the President. "You might miss them."—Collier's Weekly.

Double Duty Tree

In the garden of Stanley bay, Auckland, New Zealand, there stands an old lemon tree that produces not only its rightful fruit throughout the year but, in season, fine sweet oranges as well. At times the tree has a good crop of both fruits. Neither is tainted with the peculiarities of the other. A close examination of the tree gives one no explanation of the freak. The secret is that an orange root has been grafted to that of a lemon and the stem of the orange has grown into that of the lemon, forming what appears to be one tree.

Maligned

Sunny was driving through the country with the grandmother when he espied some pigs greedily eating in a field and asked what it was.

"They're eating clover," explained his grandmother, and when she noticed his puzzled expression, added, "clover is just the same to them as spinach is to you."

"Do they get spanked if they don't eat it?" asked Sunny with keen interest.

End of Vandals as Nation

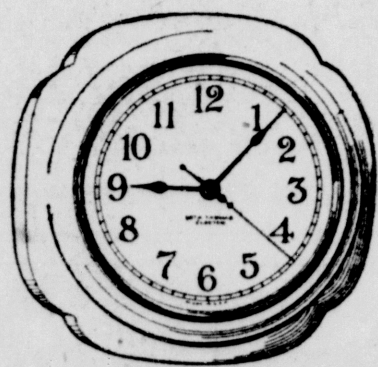

The Vandals were a Teutonic race which played a leading part in the disruption of the Roman empire in the Fifth century. They overran Gaul and Spain, and crossing to Africa established a kingdom there under Genseric (A. D. 429); committed all the excesses of barbaric devastation which have made their name proverbial; and wantonly destroyed works of art, monuments, and priceless treasures of literature during the sack of Rome (455). The Emperor Justinian sent Belisarius against them, and after several defeats they were eventually routed (533), and as a nation ceased to exist.

Why Risk It?

Woodrow Wilson, playing golf one day with three friends, followed a particularly slow foursome with a habit of holding long and intimate discussions on every green. Coming to a short hole, the confab lasted for a full ten minutes, and the Wilson group reached the last stages of nervous exasperation.

"Outrageous," one of them exclaimed at last, stepping out on the tee. "I'm going to shoot."

"I wouldn't," advised the President. "You might miss them."—Collier's Weekly.

Double Duty Tree

In the garden of Stanley bay, Auckland, New Zealand, there stands an old lemon tree that produces not only its rightful fruit throughout the year but, in season, fine sweet oranges as well. At times the tree has a good crop of both fruits. Neither is tainted with the peculiarities of the other. A close examination of the tree gives one no explanation of the freak. The secret is that an orange root has been grafted to that of a lemon and the stem of the orange has grown into that of the lemon, forming what appears to be one tree.

Maligned

Sunny was driving through the country with the grandmother when he espied some pigs greedily eating in a field and asked what it was.

"They're eating clover," explained his grandmother, and when she noticed his puzzled expression, added, "clover is just the same to them as spinach is to you."

"Do they get spanked if they don't eat it?" asked Sunny with keen interest.

Corn Sugar

In a number of states, including Minnesota, there is being conducted an energetic campaign to nullify or make ineffective Secretary of Agriculture Hyde's ruling which permits corn sugar to be classed among the sugars which can be used in manufactured food products without declaration of this use on the label, says a communication from the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Misunderstanding of the facts in the matter has given rise to a fear that this means the breakdown of the Pure Food and Drugs Act.

Secretary Hyde draws attention to the fact that we produce annually about 2,700,000,000 bushels of corn, of which only about 275,000,000 bushels ever reach the primary markets. There exists, according to the secretary, a potential market for corn, to be used in producing corn sugar, variously estimated as from five to 100 million bushels. The American Farm Bureau Federation places the amount conservatively at 20,000,000 bushels a year. But be this amount large or small, the opening of this market is, as Mr. Hyde says, "a step in the right direction."

The ruling removes an undesired stigma from corn sugar; it harms or deceives no one; neither does it weaken the Federal Food and Drug Act or its administration; it recognizes modern progress in refining and it will aid in re-establishing the economic balance of agricultural products.

In Minnesota, according to federal figures, 151,330 farmers in 1929 produced 148,855,000 bushels of corn on 4,253,000 acres, the value of this product being $96,756,000. In the belief that if the facts are known and clearly understood, hasty or ill-considered action by legislature or state food commission may be avoided, says the American Farm Bureau in conclusion.

Celebrating George Washington's 200th Birthday

THE celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington in 1932 will be unprecedented in extent and entirely original in character.

The entire United States is to become alive with local celebrations, which will begin on Washington's Birthday, February 22, 1932, and continue through Thanksgiving Day, November 21, 1932. States, cities, and towns will compete with each other in doing honor to the memory of Washington.

The United States Commission is helping all alike. It is not centering its efforts in the city of Washington, nor in any other place. It is taking the celebration to the people. In every town the people are to do their own celebrating.

In keeping with the desire of Congress, expressed in a joint resolution approved December 2, 1924, that the states and their political subdivisions cooperate with the Federal Government for the celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the United States Commission has actively urged the appointment of Bicentennial Commissions in each State and Territory and committees in every city and town. The majority of the states have appointed such commission and the smaller communities are rapidly choosing committees.

Veterans of Foreign Wars in Brainerd and many other cities may take up the celebration plans. The celebration is not to be localized. It is to be nation-wide, being observed in every city, town and hamlet in the United States and participated in by churches, patriotic associations, fraternities, luncheon clubs and schools, as well as all other organized groups in addition to individuals.

Encouraging Symptoms

THE financial house of Henry Clews & Co. of New York observes that business continues to develop in spite of market weakness.

Starting with the encouraging state of things that was reflected in the larger unfilled order book of the U. S. Steel Corp., make known as usual on the 10th of the month, the steel industry has undergone steady and encouraging, even if limited, improvement, with prospects favorable for a situation which will result in the materially higher percentage of occupied capacity that had been foreshadowed by authorities in the business.

The expanding volume of trade at automobile centers, particularly at Detroit, with the enlargement of export demand in a very satisfactory degree, support the opinion that early forecasts were soundly based, while present predictions, made by automobile authorities, indicate a belief that the upswing will not be merely seasonal in character, but will be likely to run on through the summer, due to the maintenance of purchasing demand based upon the understanding among producers that no further new models will be brought out this year.

Add to these favorable indications the fact that building contracts continue to grow larger, and hence to afford employment to more men, as the season advances, and the outlook in basic production is seen to be far from discouraging. Many retail stores are reporting a well-sustained trade, due to the fact that a long, slow spring has been in progress, thus preventing the sudden spurt of buying which often develops in late March and early April, but encouraging a continuance of steady purchasing, over a much longer period, with better and more profitable results to distributors.

MORE than 500 Rotarians from Minnesota, North Dakota and Wisconsin are expected to attend the ninth district Rotary convention at Rochester April 30 and May 1. Speakers will include Theodore A. Torgeson, Estavan, Canada; Dr. D. J. Cowling, president of Carleton College, Northfield; and Dr. W. A. Canfield, president of Carroll College, Waukesha, Wis.

A SHORT course for automobile mechanics who want to qualify as lamp-adjusters will be held at Dunwoody Institute, Minneapolis, May 8 to 9, according to a Highway bulletin. Any person who has had two years experience in automobile mechanics is eligible to take the course.

THERE are a few more cars in Minnesota this year than at the same date last year, but in spite of this fact, motor vehicle taxes have dropped off, according to a Highway bulletin. The car owners, however, are traveling more miles, burning more gasoline, and paying more gas taxes.

THE State of Minnesota will effect a substantial saving, running into several hundred thousand dollars, as a result of a drop in prices on cement for paving, said to be due to a price war between the cement companies.

Brainerd, Minn.

April 20, 1931.

Editor, Brainerd Dispatch.

The Brainerd Trades Labor Assembly met at a regular meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night.

The labor situation was discussed. In surveys of the past it appears evident that too much of the work of building a bigger and better Brainerd has been performed by outside labor leaving Brainerd men to find jobs here and there.

On different occasions, it was said at the meeting, a large part of the money spent for building of public buildings and store buildings went out of the city never to return. It appears that the majority of this money could have been spent in Brainerd, providing employment for Brainerd men only.

If we are to enjoy good times the unemployed of Brainerd must be considered first.

A committee of four men was named to meet with the city council and school board to ask their cooperation and to provide a minimum wage.

It must be accepted as a fact that citizens working on their own public buildings will do better work and more of it than men brought here who leave afterwards.

E. L. THOMAS,
Chairman of Committee,
Trades Labor Assembly,

Peggy Norris, 30, of Jefferson County, Denver, Colo., has been the means of Sheriff James C. Biggers, Jr., setting out to prepare a course in tree-climbing for his deputies. When the Sheriff's deputies raided the Norris ranch in quest of a still, Peggy did a lady Tarzan and climbed a tree. She proved an excellent tree-sitter for many hours, with the officers of the law using every known persuasive argument to induce her to come down. She eventually did and, with her two assistants, later paid a fine of $200.

Present for a King

Tea was such a rare and valuable commodity a few centuries ago that the East India Tea company considered two pounds of it a regal enough present to offer to the mighty monarch, Charles II. A fashionable paper of the day, commenting on the gift, explained that it cost more to maintain a tea table than a nurse and two children.

Corn Sugar

In a number of states, including Minnesota, there is being conducted an energetic campaign to nullify or make ineffective Secretary of Agriculture Hyde's ruling which permits corn sugar to be classed among the sugars which can be used in manufactured food products without declaration of this use on the label, says a communication from the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Misunderstanding of the facts in the matter has given rise to a fear that this means the breakdown of the Pure Food and Drugs Act.

Secretary Hyde draws attention to the fact that we produce annually about 2,700,000,000 bushels of corn, of which only about 275,000,000 bushels ever reach the primary markets. There exists, according to the secretary, a potential market for corn, to be used in producing corn sugar, variously estimated as from five to 100 million bushels. The American Farm Bureau Federation places the amount conservatively at 20,000,000 bushels a year. But be this amount large or small, the opening of this market is, as Mr. Hyde says, "a step in the right direction."

The ruling removes an undesired stigma from corn sugar; it harms or deceives no one; neither does it weaken the Federal Food and Drug Act or its administration; it recognizes modern progress in refining and it will aid in re-establishing the economic balance of agricultural products.

In Minnesota, according to federal figures, 151,330 farmers in 1929 produced 148,855,000 bushels of corn on 4,253,000 acres, the value of this product being $96,756,000. In the belief that if the facts are known and clearly understood, hasty or ill-considered action by legislature or state food commission may be avoided, says the American Farm Bureau in conclusion.

Celebrating George Washington's 200th Birthday

THE celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington in 1932 will be unprecedented in extent and entirely original in character.

The entire United States is to become alive with local celebrations, which will begin on Washington's Birthday, February 22, 1932, and continue through Thanksgiving Day, November 24, 1932. States, cities, and towns will compete with each other in doing honor to the memory of Washington.

The United States Commission is helping all alike. It is not centering its efforts in the city of Washington, nor in any other place. It is taking the celebration to the people. In every town the people are to do their own celebrating.

In keeping with the desire of Congress, expressed in a joint resolution approved December 2, 1924, that the states and their political subdivisions cooperate with the Federal Government for the celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the United States Commission has actively urged the appointment of Bicentennial Commissions in each State and Territory and committees in every city and town. The majority of the states have appointed such commission and the smaller communities are rapidly choosing committees.

Veterans of Foreign Wars in Brainerd and many other cities may take up the celebration plans. The celebration is not to be localized. It is to be nation-wide, being observed in every city, town and hamlet in the United States and participated in by churches, patriotic associations, fraternities, luncheon clubs and schools, as well as all other organized groups in addition to individuals.

Encouraging Symptoms

THE financial house of Henry Clews & Co. of New York observes that business continues to develop in spite of market weakness.

Starting with the encouraging state of things that was reflected in the larger unfilled order book of the U. S. Steel Corp., make known as usual on the 10th of the month, the steel industry has undergone steady and encouraging, even if limited, improvement, with prospects favorable for a situation which will result in the materially higher percentage of occupied capacity that had been foreshadowed by authorities in the business.

The expanding volume of trade at automobile centers, particularly at Detroit, with the enlargement of export demand in a very satisfactory degree, support the opinion that early forecasts were soundly based, while present predictions, made by automobile authorities, indicate a belief that the upswing will not be merely seasonal in character, but will be likely to run on through the summer, due to the maintenance of purchasing demand based upon the understanding among producers that no further new models will be brought out this year.

Add to these favorable indications the fact that building contracts continue to grow larger, and hence to afford employment to more men, as the season advances, and the outlook in basic production is seen to be far from discouraging. Many retail stores are reporting a well-sustained trade, due to the fact that a long, slow spring has been in progress, thus preventing the sudden spurt of buying which often develops in late March and early April, but encouraging a continuance of steady purchasing, over a much longer period, with better and more profitable results to distributors.

MORE than 500 Rotarians from Minnesota, North Dakota and Wisconsin are expected to attend the ninth district Rotary convention at Rochester April 30 and May 1. Speakers will include Theodore A. Torgeson, Estavan, Canada; Dr. D. J. Cowling, president of Carleton College, Northfield, and Dr. W. A. Canfield, president of Carroll College, Waukesha, Wis.

A SHORT course for automobile mechanics who want to qualify as lamp-adjusters will be held at Dunwoody Institute, Minneapolis, May 8 to 9, according to a Highway bulletin. Any person who has had two years experience in automobile mechanics is eligible to take the course.

THERE are a few more cars in Minnesota this year than at the same date last year, but in spite of this fact, motor vehicle taxes have dropped off, according to a Highway bulletin. The car owners, however, are traveling more miles, burning more gasoline, and paying more gas taxes.

THE State of Minnesota will effect a substantial saving, running into several hundred thousand dollars, as a result of a drop in prices on cement for paving, said to be due to a price war between the cement companies.

Brainerd, Minn.

April 20, 1931.

Editor, Brainerd Dispatch.

Dear Sir:

The Brainerd Trades Labor Assembly met at a regular meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night.

The labor situation was discussed. In surveys of the past it appears evident that too much of the work of building a bigger and better Brainerd has been performed by outside labor leaving Brainerd men to find jobs here and there.

On different occasions, it was said at the meeting, a large part of the money spent for building of public buildings and store buildings went out of the city never to return. It appears that the majority of this money could have been spent in Brainerd, providing employment for Brainerd men only.

If we are to enjoy good times the unemployed of Brainerd must be considered first.

A committee of four men was named to meet with the city council and school board to ask their cooperation and to provide a minimum wage.

It must be accepted as a fact that citizens working on their own public buildings will do better work and more of it than men brought here who leave afterwards.

E. L. THOMAS,
Chairman of Committee,
Trades Labor Assembly,
1418 L street, Brainerd.

Peggy Norris, 30, of Jefferson County, Denver, Colo., has been the means of Sheriff James C. Biggens, Jr., setting out to prepare a course in tree-climbing for his deputies. When the Sheriff's deputies raided the Norris ranch in quest of a still, Peggy did a Lady Tarzan and climbed a tree. She proved an excellent tree-sitter for many hours, with the officers of the law using every known persuasive argument to induce her to come down. She eventually did and, with her two assistants, later paid a fine of $200.

3,000 ATHLETES TAKES PART IN DRAKE RELAYS AT WEEK END

MIDWEST BIGGEST SPRING ATHLETIC CARNIVAL HELD

PERFORMERS IN UNIVERSITY,
COLLEGE, HIGH SCHOOL TRY
TO BETTER MARKS

ESTABLISHED OVER PERIOD OF
22 YEARS SINCE GAMES WERE
FIRST FOUNDED

By GENE GILLETTE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Des Moines, April 22.—Approximately 3,000 athletes whose ability has won acclaim on campuses throughout the nation will participate this year in the midwest's greatest spring athletic carnival—the Drake Relays.

Performers in university, college and high school classes will strive to better marks that have been established over a period of 22 years since the games were founded by Maj. John L. Griffith, who now is commissioner of athletics in the western conference.

If sunshine and mild temperatures replace the cold, dismal weather that has prevailed over the Drake stadium for the past three days, several new records may be established. The games begin on Friday and finals will be run Saturday afternoon.

At the Kansas Relays last week three relay and three special event records for the Drake performers were bettered. With all the teams that participated in the Kansas games, and nearly as many more entered here, there seemed little doubt that new records will be set.

The mark of 14.8 seconds for the high hurdles, which was set at the Drake games by Bob Simpson 14 years ago, may fall this week before the powerful stride of Lee Sentman, Illinois, who ran the high hurdles at Kansas in 14.6.

Likewise, Edward Gordon, negro broad jumper of Iowa University, threatens the 7-year-old mark of De-hart Hubbard, Michigan, who jumped

CZAR LANDIS FIRMLY ENTRENCHED BY THE COURTS

24 feet 2 3-4 inches in 1924. Gordon beat this mark a foot last week when he cleared 25 feet 4 3-8 inches.

Hugh Rhea of Nebraska has bettered the meet record in the shot; Abilene Christian's two-mile relay team has clipped five seconds from the meet mark in that event, and in the strenuous four-mile relay Illinois has a mark to its credit that is seven seconds better than the Drake record.

In the relay event that requires perfect teamwork in passing the baton—the 440—Kansas has a team that set a record last week of 41.1 seconds, or .6 of a second lower than the existing relays record here.

WINS FIRST CASE INVOLVING TEST OF HIS AUTHORITY

FEDERAL COURT RULING SUS-
TAINS LANDIS IN FRED BEN-
NETT CASE

DECLARES CZAR ACTED WITHIN
RIGHTS DECLARING BENNETT
FREE AGENT

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, April 22.—Victorious in the first case involving a test of his authority, Kenesaw Mountain Landis today was more firmly entrenched than ever before as czar of organized baseball.

Landis' authority as the supreme dictator of baseball was upheld in a federal court ruling handed down yesterday by Judge Walter C. Lindley in the Fred Bennett case. Judge Lindley ruled that Landis had acted clearly within his rights when he declared Outfielder Bennett a free agent last summer.

The decision was made in a suit—the first litigation attempted by any club or player challenging Landis' power—brought by the Milwaukee American Association Club against Landis, with Bennett as the intervening petitioner.

Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns and Milwaukee Brewers, questioned Landis' power to declare any player a free agent. Judge Lindley ruled that the situation resulting in the loss of Player Bennett's services was clearly one of the St. Louis club's own making in violating the rules of organized baseball by attempting to transfer the player for the third successive year to a minor league club without asking major league waivers on him.

That the St. Louis and Milwaukee clubs will continue their fight to overthrow the power of Landis was indicated today when Attorney Guy C. Peters said he planned to carry the case to the circuit court of appeals. Judge Lindley's ruling leaves Bennett who has been idle pending the decision free to negotiate with any major or minor league club for his services.

Backed by the federal court ruling, Landis can now continue his war against "chain store baseball," long called by the commissioner the deadliest enemy of the national game.

It was revealed in the decision that Phil Ball, according to the findings of Landis, has completely controlled the St. Louis Browns, Tulsa Western League club and Wichita Falls Texas League club since February 16, 1928, and that he had owned 50 per cent of the stock in the Milwaukee club since July, 1927, and since January 19, 1929, had completely controlled the latter club.

The Browns attempted to manipulate Bennett back and forth between their farms for a period in excess of two years under apparent outright sales and without giving other major league clubs a chance to claim the player's services. Bennett was sold by Tulsa to the Browns in 1928, only to be returned on option and then on outright release the same year. He was sold to Milwaukee at the end of the 1928 season, but didn't report and was transferred to the Wichita Falls club. In September, 1929, he was sold to the Browns again. St. Louis attempted to release him to Milwaukee, when Commissioner Landis stepped in and ruled him a free agent.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR JUNIOR BALL TEAMS IN CITY

SPONSORED BY AMERICAN LE-GION AND UNDER SUPERVI-
SION OF I. L. PETERSON

TEAMS FROM 5 WARDS TO COM-PETE TO DETERMINE BEST TO REPRESENT BRAINERD

Junior baseball teams in Brainerd sponsored by the American Legion and under the direct supervision of I. L. Peterson will begin inter-ward competition about June 1. Mr. Peterson told The Dispatch today.

At a recent meeting of the Legion, Mr. Peterson was appointed to have supervision over the teams and a certain sum was set aside with which to purchase balls and other promotion material.

Mr. Peterson plans to have a team in each of the five wards of the city and states that some of the boys have already started to practice. A. G. Loom has tendered his services of officiating at some of the games.

The games between the various ward teams to determine the team best fitted to represent Brainerd in the district competition will begin on June 1. The team selected will represent the city and will probably play several teams around the district before entering the district tournament.

Last year the District Legion Junior Baseball tournament was held in Brainerd.

Five hundred Junior Legion baseball teams will compete with each other during 1931, and the district champions will meet at Stillwater next July to decide the state title, according to C. A. (Chic) Zwerner of Ortonville, department Legion athletic director, recently appointed state Legion adjutant.

Director Zwerner states that Junior Legion baseball is growing in favor every year. In 1928, he said, there were 211 Minnesota teams; in 1929 the total reached 401, with several thousands of boys actively participating.

"Throughout the entire nation, hundreds of thousands of boys in thousands of Junior Legion baseball teams play the game every year under proper supervision," Mr. Zwerner declared.

"While every team hopes to win in the local, district, state, regional, sectional and even in the Junior World Series tournaments, it is the aim of local Legion leaders, not to perfect just one championship-winning team, but rather to organize several teams in which as many boys as possible may play the game according to honest and sportsmanlike American ideals."

COACH TAYLOR BUSY, ROUNDS OUT TRACK MEN FOR MAY MEETS

MOE, FOSTER, HOHMAN APPEAR STRONG IN THEIR EVENTS; TEAM WEAK IN SHOT PUT

MAY TAKE TEAM OF JUNIORS TO INVITATIONAL MEET AT
AITKIN ON MAY 1

With Moe, Foster and Hohman appearing unusually strong in their events, the Brainerd high school track team is slowly rounding into form for the May meets under the direction of Coach Ben Taylor.

Elmer Foster and Nathan Schuety are co-captains of the team this year. Foster is strong in the weight tossing and high jumping events while Schuety is leading the field in the dashes, the low hurdles and the broad jump.

In the first meet scheduled, the big invitational meet at Aitkin on May 1, Coach Taylor may take a junior high school team for competition in that class if the juniors turn out well for practice and make a fair showing before that time.

The men who seem fairly sure of getting a berth with the U. S. H. S. trials this season are: Foster, Schuety, Dahl, G. Wygle, Moe, Swanson, Rice, R. Wygle, Malstrom, Coenen, Hohman, Marshall, Smith, White and McCleary.

Moe, who turned in exceptional time in the quarter and the half mile events, should win those events in several of the May meets.

Although there are no stars that are exactly standouts Brainerd will be represented by a well-balanced squad this year. The dashes are not well taken care of yet and there is a weakness in the shot-putting group but these difficulties may be ironed out soon.

Swanson shows a lot of promise in the high hurdles while Schuety can be made into a first-class timber-tapper over the longer distance.

G. Wygle seems to be the class of the pole-vaulting aspirants and Hohman is leading the other high jumpers. Marshall has been coming to the fore as a weight tosser and can be made into a valuable man in those events.

The district meet is scheduled for May 16 and the date of the regional meet will be announced later.

DR. STEINFELDT AND LESTER

MAY GET FIFTEEN FROM VIR-GINIA CE DETROIT LAKES;
CATCHERS IN LINE

A movement led by Dr. A. A. Steinfeldt and Lester Peterson may be instrumental in securing a good semi-professional baseball team for Brainerd this season, it was learned here today.

Dr. Steinfeldt became very popular with Brainerd baseball fans during the old days of the city league and many people believe that he can bring baseball back to its former standing in Brainerd.

Earl Wetzel of Little Falls, Phil of St. Cloud, Daniels of Crookston and Lester Peterson of Brainerd met in the Elks hotel here Sunday to discuss the possibility of a semi-pro team here similar to those of Crookston, Little Falls and St. Cloud. George Thompson of Minneapolis, head of the Umpire Association of Minnesota, and George Heising, Minneapolis, head of the Baseball Bureau of Minnesota, were also in attendance.

After talking over the organizing of a semi-pro baseball team here, Little Falls offered Brainerd its opening date of May 24.

The same men that met here Sunday will meet in St. Cloud next Sunday for the talking over of schedules. Pitchers in line for the hurling job of the Brainerd club are Cy Olson of Detroit Lakes and "Lefty" Hanson of Virginia.

Several catchers who may be lined up include Butorae of Crosby, who caught such a nice game for Brainerd against St. Paul last season, and Smith, who caught for the St. Paul club last year on their barnstorming trip.

It may be possible to secure Pomeroy for either an outfield or infield position, Manager Peterson asserted.

HAD Rogers Hornsby played football at Notre Dame he would have delighted the late Knute Rockne because the "Rajah" tries so hard to win and hates so much to lose that he seems to have no concern for personal popularity, or any other thrill save victory. This will be his first real test as manager of the Chicago Cubs. When he succeeded Joe McCarthy, now pilot of the New York Yankees, late last season it was unfairly noised about that Hornsby had undermined his boss. Thorough investigation, however, shows the Wrigley ownership alone decided to make that managerial change with no sinister urging or other intrigue involved. McCarthy himself will verify that. He and "Rajah," like the latter and John McGraw of the Giants, were never exactly chummy, but Hornsby had no hand in the managerial "ride" which "Mac" took at Chicago last season. It is simply a business office change brought about because McCarthy failed to produce another pennant winner.

And now the "Rajah" himself is "on the spot," as it were, for—unless the Cubs become 1931 National League champions—he, too, may be considered as gumming the Wrigley baseball works, and that is likely to mean "the air," as the fans say.

Starting with as powerful a hitting team as there is in the game, Hornsby has been concerned chiefly with his pitching staff and one or two infield problems thus far this year. The Cubs have added Pitchers Bob Smith, May and Sweetland to their mound aces of 1930.

"Rajah" himself hopes to play second in old-time form unless his bad leg goes lame again or some other incapacity occurs. He's been fielding splendidly and walking 'em as of yore during the training period. "Woody" English has also been sparkling with a new-comer named Jurgens in the Hornsby-inspired infield.

"Hack" Wilson and his veteran outfield pals on the Cubs are still "b'ars" with the bat. So "Rajah" is far from pessimistic as to his chances of wreathing the Wrigley countenance with a championship smile by the end of the current hit-that-ball-and-run season.

Winter Tour "Big Shots"

GENE SARAZEN
--WHO IS AT THE
PEAK OF HIS GOLF
CAREER, AT PRESENT!

THE annual Winter tour of America's leading professional golfers clearly established the veteran Gene Sarazen as the most likely to succeed Bobby Jones as the world's greatest linksman provided he can keep his game at top for another six months or more. Gene, hot the recent La Gorce open into the other prizes in his golf money bag. He has been displaying such excellent form through most tournaments since last December that, at present, he's a standout overshadowing Tommy Armour, MacDonal Smith, Al Espinosa, Johnny Golden and other top-notch pros.

Walter Hagen is still in the doldrums after his sad 1930 fade-out and his youthful pal, Horton Smith, finally struck one of those gruesome slumps as a climax of which he rolled up an 85 on a final round in one of the Southern tourneys. An 85 for the par-clipping "Mechanical Marvel from Missouri"—it's all but incredible! It is an axiom that all who play golf steadily for years inevitably "crack wide open." All the game's masters have experienced those brutal streaks, and hope is still high that the 22-year-old Horton Smith will regain his 1929-30 form that made him loom as the successor to Walter Hagen, if not to the incomparable Jones.

In the meanwhile, Sarazen is reviving the glories of Skokie where he beat Jones in the final way back in 1922. Gene is planning to enter the British Open this Spring and all other major golfing events to which he is eligible. While a conqueror's light beats on the bronzed Sarazen, the Winter campaign finally brought a victory—the North and South championship—to the popular Wilfred (Wiffy) Cox, of Brooklyn, N. Y., one of the best liked of the pros among all who know him. Wiffy is a highly skilled golfer and he had been trying for years to win a big tournament. He often led the field with two or three brilliant rounds, but faltered in the finale.

This time he had to play off nine extra holes with Joe Turnesa but Wiffy did not wilt under the strain. That Cox victory was one of the brightest spots in all the long tour that lasted from December into April.

3,000 ATHLETES TAKES PART IN DRAKE RELAYS AT WEEK END

MIDWEST BIGGEST SPRING ATHLETIC CARNIVAL HELD

PERFORMERS IN UNIVERSITY,
COLLEGE, HIGH SCHOOL TRY
TO BETTER MARKS

ESTABLISHED OVER PERIOD OF
22 YEARS SINCE GAMES WERE
FIRST FOUNDED

By GENE GILLETTE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Des Moines, April 22.—Approximately 3,000 athletes whose ability has won acclaim on campuses throughout the nation will participate this year in the Midwest's greatest spring athletic carnival—the Drake Relays.

Performers in university, college and high school classes will strive to better marks that have been established over a period of 22 years since the games were founded by Maj. John L. Griffith, who now is commissioner of athletics in the western conference.

If sunshine and mild temperatures replace the cold, dismal weather that has prevailed over the Drake stadium for the past three days, several new records may be established. The games begin on Friday and finals will be run Saturday afternoon.

At the Kansas Relays last week three relay and three special event records for the Drake performers were bettered. With all the teams that participated in the Kansas games, and nearly as many more entered here, there seemed little doubt that new records will be set.

The mark of 14.8 seconds for the high hurdles, which was set at the Drake games by Bob Simpson 14 years ago, may fall this week before the powerful stride of Lee Sentman, Illinois, who ran the high hurdles at Kansas in 14.6.

Likewise, Edward Gordon, negro broad jumper of Iowa University, threatens the 7-year-old mark of Dehart Hubbard, Michigan, who jumped

CZAR LANDIS FIRMLY ENTRENCHED BY THE COURTS

24 feet 2 3/4 inches in 1924. Gordon beat this mark a foot last week when he cleared 25 feet 4 3/8 inches.

Hugh Rhea of Nebraska has bettered the meet record in the shot; Abilene Christian's two-mile relay team has clipped five seconds from the meet mark in that event, and in the strenuous four-mile relay Illinois has a mark to its credit that is seven seconds better than the Drake record.

In the relay event that requires perfect teamwork in passing the baton—the 440—Kansas has a team that set a record last week of 41.1 seconds, or 6 of a second lower than the existing relay record here.

WINS FIRST CASE INVOLVING TEST OF HIS AUTHORITY

FEDERAL COURT RULING SUSTAINS LANDIS IN FRED BENNETT CASE

DECLARES CZAR ACTED WITHIN RIGHTS DECLARING BENNETT FREE AGENT

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, April 22.—Victorious in the first case involving a test of his authority, Kenesaw Mountain Landis today was more firmly entrenched than ever before as czar of organized baseball.

Landis' authority as the supreme dictator of baseball was upheld in a federal court ruling handed down yesterday by Judge Walter C. Lindley in the Fred Bennett case. Judge Lindley ruled that Landis had acted clearly within his rights when he declared Outfielder Bennett a free agent last summer.

The decision was made in a suit—the first litigation attempted by any club or player challenging Landis' power—brought by the Milwaukee American Association Club against Landis, with Bennett as the intervening petitioner.

Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns and Milwaukee Brewers, questioned Landis' power to declare any player a free agent. Judge Lindley ruled that the situation resulting in the loss of Player Bennett's services was clearly one of the St. Louis club's own making in violating the rules of organized baseball by attempting to transfer the player for the third successive year to a minor league club without asking major league waivers on him.

That the St. Louis and Milwaukee clubs will continue their fight to overthrow the power of Landis was indicated today when Attorney Guy C. Peters said he planned to carry the case to the circuit court of appeals.

Judge Lindley's ruling leaves Bennett who has been idle pending the decision free to negotiate with any major or minor league club for his services.

Backed by the federal court ruling, Landis can now continue his war against "chain store baseball," long called by the commissioner the deadliest enemy of the national game.

It was revealed in the decision that Phil Ball, according to the findings of Landis, has completely controlled the St. Louis Browns, Tulsa Western League club and Wichita Falls Texas League club since February 16, 1928, and that he had owned 50 per cent of the stock in the Milwaukee club since July, 1927, and since January 19, 1929, had completely controlled the latter club.

The Browns attempted to manipulate Bennett back and forth between their farms for a period in excess of two years under apparent outright sales and without giving other major league clubs a chance to claim the player's services. Bennett was sold by Tulsa to the Browns in 1928, only to be returned on option and then on outright release the same year. He was sold to Milwaukee at the end of the 1928 season, but didn't report and was transferred to the Wichita Falls club. In September, 1929, he was sold to the Browns again. St. Louis attempted to release him to Milwaukee, when Commissioner Landis stepped in and ruled him a free agent.

TEAMS FROM 5 WARDS TO COMPETE TO DETERMINE BEST TO REPRESENT BRAINERD

Junior baseball teams in Brainerd sponsored by the American Legion and under the direct supervision of I. L. Peterson will begin inter-ward competition about June 1. Mr. Peterson told The Dispatch today.

At a recent meeting of the Legion, Mr. Peterson was appointed to have supervision over the teams and a certain sum was set aside with which to purchase balls and other promotion material.

47TH MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE ADJOURNS TODAY

its provision is now pending before the United States supreme court. Governor Olson in his inaugural address asked the repeal of this measure.

Sponsored by the Minnesota American Legion, a state-wide boxing bill failed to pass both houses although considerable pressure was brought by such cities as St. Cloud, Rochester, Winona, Red Wing, Brainerd and others. Under the proposals of this measure, boxing would have been legalized in all parts of the state instead of only Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth as at present.

One of Governor Olson's "pet" bills to provide for a three-man securities commission did not pass. The governor wanted to supplant C. W. Gillam, present head of the securities bureau. The senate approved a three-man measure but the house revised it so that it would provide for the appointment of additional workers under Gillam. The measure never was worked out in conference.

Proposals for a state income tax law lost but supporters of this form of taxation won the right to submit to the voters a constitutional amendment which would legalize an income tax.

Special taxation of chain stores was lost through inability of both houses to act. A measure providing for a tax of $100 on organization of three or more stores was passed only by one branch of the legislature.

The house held up a proposal to license automobile drivers. The measure passed the senate but was lost in the other house.

Hurried conferences were held yesterday to pass the educational bill which provides for the University of Minnesota and the six state teachers colleges. It provides for $21,356,989.32.

The University of Minnesota will receive $3,275,000 annually or an increase of $50,000 over the previous grant of the 1929 legislature.

Allowances to the six state teachers' colleges were as follows: St. Cloud, $147,500; Mankato, $327,000; Winona, $294,370; Moorhead, $288,500; Duluth, $238,000; Bemidji, $205,844.

47TH MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE ADJOURNS TODAY

its provision is now pending before the United States supreme court. Governor Olson in his inaugural address asked the repeal of this measure.

Sponsored by the Minnesota American Legion, a state-wide boxing bill failed to pass both houses although considerable pressure was brought by such cities as St. Cloud, Rochester, Winona, Red Wing, Brainerd and others. Under the proposals of this measure, boxing would have been legalized in all parts of the state instead of only Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth as at present.

One of Governor Olson's "pet" bills to provide for a three-man securities commission did not pass. The governor wanted to supplant C. W. Gillam, present head of the securities bureau. The senate approved a three-man measure but the house revised it so that it would provide for the appointment of additional workers under Gillam. The measure never was worked out in conference.

Proposals for a state income tax law lost but supporters of this form of taxation won the right to submit to the voters a constitutional amendment which would legalize an income tax.

Special taxation of chain stores was lost through inability of both houses to act. A measure providing for a tax of $100 on organization of three or more stores was passed only by one branch of the legislature.

The house held up a proposal to license automobile drivers. The measure passed the senate but was lost in the other house.

Hurried conferences were held yesterday to pass the educational bill which provides for the University of Minnesota and the six state teachers colleges. It provides for $21,556,989.32.

The University of Minnesota will receive $3,275,000 annually or an increase of $50,000 over the previous grant of the 1929 legislature.

Allowances to the six state teachers' colleges were as follows: St. Cloud, $137,500; Mankato, $327,900; Winona, $294,370; Moorhead, $288,500; Duluth, $238,000; Bemidji, $205,844.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Bhima Martin, called "Bim," young reporter, is anxious to aid her father's small-town newspaper. She rejects the marriage proposals of Walter Vance, Assistant Chief of Police. Walter asks Bim not to attend a party given by wealthy Emily Hardy, in honor of the decrepit Baron von Wiese and his haughty young wife. Ted Frost, town play-boy and husband of patient Mary Frost, is enamored of the Baroness. As the butler serves wine, the Baroness stares at him. Their eyes meet and, stunned, he drops a glass. Later, on a pretense, the Baroness goes to the dining room and is speaking with the butler, when her maid appears and screams. On the terrace, Bim sees the Baroness slip the butler a piece of paper.

CHAPTER IV.

THE clock on the Reformed Church down in the village was tolling nine, the echoes rolling faintly up Pine Hill, when Bim said good-night and left the party, with the mystery lurking in its midst, upon the terrace.

She pondered that mystery as she walked down the drive, moving briskly through the deep shadow. What was it all about? Would it remain a mystery, unseen and unguessed by most of the Pine Hill crowd as Walter called her friends? Or would it flare into the open and perhaps fulfill Walter's prophecy that "something would break at Eagle's Nest?"

There had been tension in the very air of the place; now that she thought of it she had felt an undercurrent the moment she put her foot in the mansion. Yet there was nothing tangible — nothing that was, which probably couldn't be explained away.

Passing Fancies.

Ted's flirtation with the Baroness was nothing to bother about; at least it would not have been a year ago when he was falling into and out of affairs one after the other. Of course it was possible that Mary would be upset by his marked attention to the Baroness; but this, too, was nothing. Poor Bob would not long remember the slight offered Millicent's devoted little scatter-brain Millicent herself would see to it.

Well, then the thing whatever it was, had to do with the guests of honor; with the Baron, gouty, fishy-eyed, watching his wife while bewilderment and outrage and malice crossed his seamed old face. Bim guessed that the Baroness made a habit of flirtation; that she carried flirtations on flagrantly, flaunting them before her husband. Something contemptible about that since he was quite helpless to retaliate or defend himself.

The Baroness — how beautiful she was! Why did she watch William the butler in the mirror? Why was he so startled when her gaze locked with his as to let a glass slide from his fingers? What message did he mutter into the Baroness ear beneath the cover of dinner-table chatter? Why did she leave the party on a flimsy pretext and go back to the dining room to seek him out? What did she say to him there, talking swiftly, earnestly, with her hand on his arm? Why was Jane, the maid, stricken at sight of them? Why did William shield the maid — and himself and the Baroness — with the faked-up story of a burglar? Why did the Baroness slip a torn-out magazine page into William's hand?

Bim could answer none of the questions; she grew giddy with trying and finally gave up. But one thing she did decide; she would not tell Walter what had happened. Bim was too forthright to mind a little told-you-so crowing on Walter's part but she had no wish to put into his possession anything which might lend color to the theory that Em Hardy and her crowd were not the right friends for herself. Bim liked them all and meant to continue her visits to Eagle's Nest regardless of Walter's protests or of her father's either if Walter should see fit to enlist Old Tom's aid.

Passing the Station House, she saw a light and stopped in, expecting to find Fred Burke, who usually took the desk when Walter left at 8 o'clock. But Walter himself was there, playing solitaire with a pack of very dirty cards spread across the police blotter, and looking glum.

He answered her "Hi!" with a nod and swept the cards into a drawer. "I'll walk home with you, Bim. Shebang'll mind itself for half an hour."

"But, where's Fred? Don't tell me you're getting kind to the help with nights off and everything."

"No foolin'!" He grinned, but his eyes were serious. "I s'pose you'll say 'scarecrow' and all that, but I wouldn't go off the job while you were up the hill. Laugh that off, if you like."

She didn't laugh, though. "You're awfully sweet, Wally. And awfully foolish. What did you expect would happen to me up there?"

"It wasn't just that," he explained. "On the level, I've got a feeling about Em Hardy's place. Truth is, Bim, I've been staying around whenever she gives a blow-out, sort of waiting for something to break. I suppose — well, I don't know why exactly, only she drags in such nuts from here and there and everywhere. Once it was an East Indian with a baby elephant trailing him down the street, and once it was a gunman straight out of Chicago. And once —"

"But she has nice people, too, Wally. Not all nuts."

"Yeah. But I dunno."

The Summons.

They talked about other things then for it was Summer and they were young and one of them at least was very much in love. And it was really an hour or perhaps two that the Station House was left to mind itself, though Walter ordinarily was conscientious about duty.

However, as it turned out, those couple of hours were the last time off the young assistant chief of police was to have in a long while, for even as he returned to his post at midnight, there was transpiring that which would keep him working night and day and which would, in the end, change everything for him and for Bim as well.

He called her on the telephone early in the morning. It was very early that the summons brought her, all flushed and flurried with sleep, to the extension telephone in the hallway outside her room, yawning as she took down the receiver.

"Bim? Listen—" His voice sounded strained and Bim opened one eye wide, then the other, as drowsiness fell from her like a garment. "Are you listening, Bim?"

"Of course, Wally."

"You up yet?"

"I am now. For goodness sake—"

"Get dressed and come to Eagle's Nest. Understand? Get yourself a cup of coffee first. I'll be waiting for you. There's a room at the right as you go in; I'll be there. Right away."

"But — but Walter — what's — well, can't you tell me anything? Certainly I'll come out, but I'd like to know—"

"Not now. Remember — room at the right. Don't talk to anyone. Step on it."

"Oh—" The receiver at the other end of the line clicked and she stood there a moment looking at the telephone.

"It looks very much," she remarked aloud as she dashed for the bathroom, "as if something has broken at Eagle's Nest!"

Nothing Changed.

Hardly more than a half hour later Bim rattled up Lowland Drive in Old Tom's flivver and parking the ramshackle car at the gates of Eagle's Nest, walked the rest of the way. The mansion looked exactly as she had left it the night before; the huge wicker chairs on the terrace were pushed about as if the dinner guests had only that minute left them; wind rustled the magazines from which the Baroness had torn a page; nothing was changed.

Before Bim could ring Walter came along the wide hall and opened the door. He was rather drawn, rather weedy, and she guessed at once that he had been up all night. She gave him a little hug as he drew her toward the small drawing room at the west of the hall and he slipped his arm about her shoulders and dropped a kiss upon her pale head.

"Sit down," he said when the door was closed. "I've telephoned the D. A. and he's sending Jim Reynolds over. Before he comes I want you to tell me everything you know about the party last night."

A chill struck down her heart and something tight seemed to wind her throat. She said, "Yes, Walter. Only — can't you tell me just something what it's all about?"

"Yes," grimly. "The Baroness von Wiese was murdered last night. Shot in the back. She's lying out in the garden — out in the Summer house."

To Be Continued Tomorrow.
